CORN CONTEST
The Agriculture Committee of the Enterprise Chamber of Commerce is issuing the call for participants in the county and Wiregrass 100 bushels Corn Contest. I. B. McCall is on the district committee, and the Enterprise Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee members are Roy Sims, Philip Martin, Jimmy Henderson, and Dr. Wayne Roberts.

Special plans are being made for both the county and district recognitions programs to be held this fall. All Coffee County farmers are invited to participate. Send me a card or call our office at 347-6085 if you are interested in entering the contest.

OPERATING BUDGET

Our farm management staff at Auburn has come up with one of the finest operating budgets and credit plans that I have ever seen. They had the help of the American Bankers Association in preparing the material. It is a seven-page folder and has plenty of room for keeping all types of operating expenses, capital sales, and capital expenses.

the Spring Hill Methodist Church. Funeral services were held at 11 a. m. Tuesday in the McGeehee Funeral Home in Troy with the Reverend Mack King and Reverend Ray Forman officiating. Burial was in the Mossy Grove Cemetery.

Survivors include four daughters: Mrs. Jack Studdard, of Troy, Mrs. Jack Swindall, of Brundidge, Mrs. Hollis Kelley of Elba, and Mrs. Oril F. Long of Montgomery; two sons: Thomas Whitehurst of Amore and Adrian W. Whitehurst of Montgomery; two sisters, Mrs. Emma Johnson of Elba and Mrs. Ura Dell Fowler of Troy; two brothers, Macon Ellis of Wacha, Fla., and John Ellis of Mobile; 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

SOCIAL SECURITY
Ted A. Gamble, district manager of the Social Security office in Dothan, has asked for my help on a project. This is beneficial to all of the people in the county, both urban and rural.

In his letter to me, Gamble says, "We are now encouraging people to handle most of their business with us by telephone. We have installed new telephone equipment and have made arrangements so they can call on Social Security matter without cost to them. The telephone number for people on the Dothan Exchange is 794-3161. The telephone number for people on the Clayton Exchange is 687-3308, and those who are not on either of these exchanges can call us free by dialing the operator and asking for WX-6200."

FORESTRY MANAGEMENT
G. B. Huey of Enterprise is interested in pine trees. I visited a 160-acre farm of his this week where he had a pulpwood cutting operation. Huey planted several acres of pine trees about 15 years ago, and he is doing his first thinning now. Aside from getting several cords of pulpwood per acre, he is leaving his stand in good shape now to make rapid growth. He told me if he could live another 10 years, he would have a lot of good saw timber.

I notice a lot of stands of pines need thinning. Ed Travick who has some property on the Damascus Road thinned some of his pines a few years ago and the stand looks a lot better now.

KUDZU CONTROL

Here is good news for folks who have just been taken over by kudzu. Kudzu has its place in stopping big gulches and certain other erosion control projects. However, for most folks it is a real pest.

A new material called Tordan is the most effective chemical available for the control of kudzu. Tordan may be applied from early spring just before new growth begins through the active growing season. Broadcast or spot treatments may be applied by hand or mechanical spreader. One application is sufficient.

The active ingredient is carried into the soil by rain where it is taken up by the plant's roots. Care must be taken not to put this material where you have desirable trees you want to save. It will take 40-50 pounds of the pellets per acre.

Movie On Israel Sponsored By Ministers

Across a barren land, scarred by centuries of war and neglect, the specters of ancient Israel appear, hover, and fade away. Suddenly there is movement of a different sort, and slowly, steadily, a startling transformation begins to take place.

Thus begins "THIS LAND," the thrilling story of Israel from ancient to modern times. "THIS LAND," a one-hour color feature motion picture, takes you on a journey through space, time and current events. You see graphically, the fact that Israel is a living testimony to the words of the prophets when they proclaimed that Israel would take her place among the nations of the world.

In the company of Cliff Barrows and Cliff Richard, England's popular star, who sings a number of new Ralph Carmichael songs, some of which were actually written on location, you travel the vibrant streets and lonely solitary paths of this nation whose destiny is daily discussed in the councils of governments all over the world. The same paths taken by Jesus and the prophets of Israel as they work, play and build a nation.

"THIS LAND," rich in color and authentic sights and sounds, with a popular musical score composed and arranged by Ralph Carmichael has been called a musical journey into the soul of a nation, and will be shown on April 6th at 8:00 p.m. at the Elba High School Auditorium. Local sponsors of the film is the Elba Ministerial Association. "THIS LAND," truly a feast of color, sound and song, an unforgettable experience!

Galloway Denies Involvement

Commissioner Byron Galloway has been very upset for the past several days. The cause of his unrest was an article in one of the Enterprise papers.

The story accompanying pictures of Coffee County equipment building a fish pond on private land stated that Galloway's district had furnished some of the equipment used on the project. Galloway said this was completely untrue, as he had not had any equipment doing private work in Enterprise. According to Galloway the only work he had done in this district recently was to assist with construction of a road that had been requested by the people and approved by the County Commission.

Galloway says he has been promised a retraction of this by the paper making the error but also requested that The Elba Clipper also print his denial.

Suit Filed To Stop Building Complex

Last week another law suit was filed in Federal Court from Coffee County. The suit, filed in the name of the men who filled the re-apportionment suit last fall, ask Judge Frank Johnson to enjoin the County Commissioners from proceeding with the letting of the bid for the construction of a Coffee County office complex at New Brocton.

Their reason, as stated in the Civil Action, was that it would remove a substantial portion of the County's operation from the City of Enterprise.

Judge Johnson denied the order for a temporary restraining order and set Thursday, March 30, for hearing arguments for and against a permanent restraining order.

As soon as the news of the action reached Coffee County, the telephone lines began to buzz and according to information reaching this newspaper at least four of the plaintiffs denied knowing anything about the suit and stated they approved the location of the farm related buildings in New Brocton! They further stated they would go to Montgomery and tell Judge Johnson they had nothing to do with the action.

DISMUKES WIN TRIP

Mr. Dismukes has just won the Ford Sales Contest for a trip around the world. Dismukes Ford had to sell a lot of cars and trucks in great volume to win as the Ford Motor Company had assigned them an objective as they do the big Metropolitan Ford Dealers in the nation. This objective was achieved only through the help of all the Dismukes Ford employees and wonderful customers, said Mr. Dismukes.

Herman and Madeline thanked the public with great hospitality, for making this dream trip come true.

They will be visiting such Port-O-Calls as Tehran, Persopolis, Iran, Vienna, Austria, Thailand, Bangkok, Guan, Singapore, Honolulu, Hawaii, etc.

Publisher Warns
'Consumerists'
Threaten System

Warning against the dangers from "consumerists" (whom he defines as a "small but vocal group of far-out activists who keep hounding the United States Congress and various Federal agencies for additional controls over industry") Thomas R. Shepard, Jr., publisher of Look Magazine, says industry should do more to tell its side of the story.

He said that business organizations and advertisers are developing ways to police their own output with stringent standards and strict enforcement that would seem to be exactly what the consumerists want: "self-regulation that would make government controls unnecessary."

But, he said, "The consumerists don't want self-regulation—nothing short of government regulation would be acceptable."

Speaking before the spring marketing conference of the National Association of Manufacturers, Mr. Shepard said that right now Congress is considering a total of 512 bills aimed at regulating private industry.

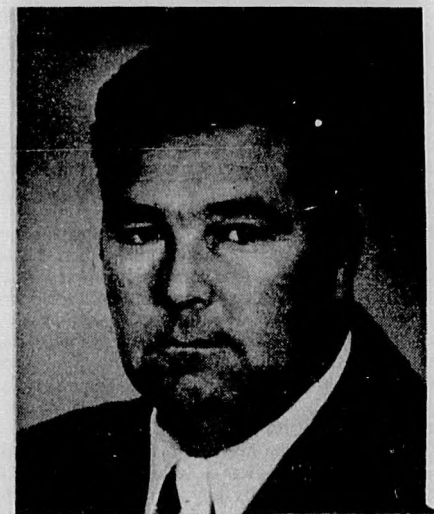

He said that consumer advocate Ralph Nader is asking federal chartering of all corporations, with the government empowered to set production standards, prescribe marketing procedures and hire and fire executives. This would amount to the "nationalization of industry," Mr. Shepard said, and "it would mark the end of free enterprise."

Peanut Butter Cookies: Are Tops

Just as there are dozens of ways to vary a peanut butter cookie, there are dozens of reasons for putting peanut butter cookies at the top of any cookie list. Everybody likes them. Peanut butter cookies are nutritionally super. Skippy peanut butter is a rich source of protein and niacin, one of the B vitamins. Its oil is a good source of the essential polyunsaturated fatty acids.

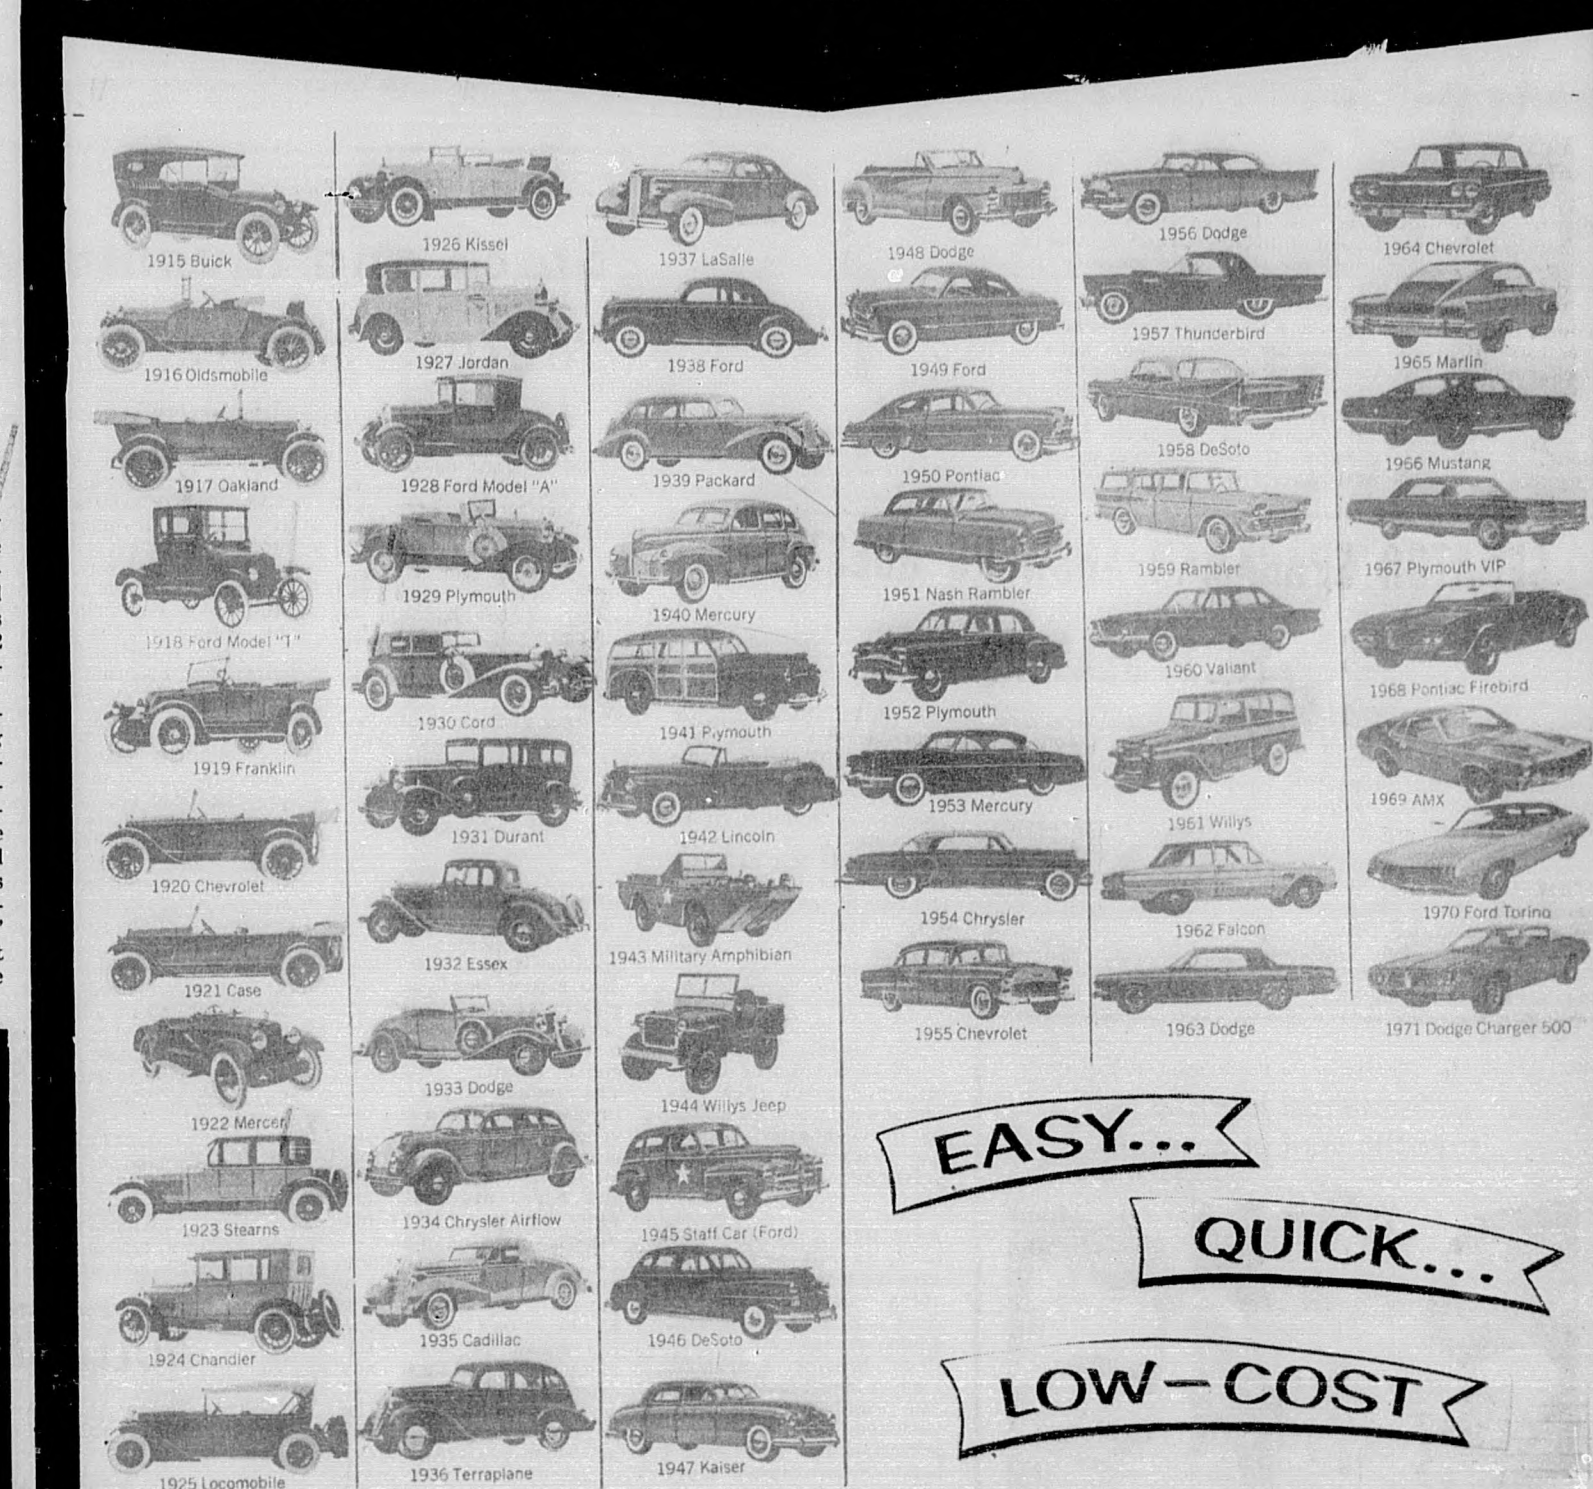

Peanut Butter Cookies: Stir together until blended 1 cup margarine, 1 cup Skippy peanut butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar. Beat in 2 beaten eggs and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift together 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Add to peanut butter mixture, stir until well blended. If necessary, chill dough until it can be easily handled. Shape into 1-inch balls. Place about 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Flatten with a floured bottom of a glass, or with a floured or dipped in chocolate-syrup fork making a crisscross pattern. Bake in 350 F. moderate oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 dozen (2 inch) cookies.

For Old Fashioned Thumbprint Peanut Butter Cookies: make a small indentation into each ball of dough with thumb. After cookies are baked and still warm, press again with thumb. Cool, then fill indentations with jelly or jam.

To turn out Peanut Butter Spritz: put the dough through a cookie press. Dip the ends of the baked cookies in melted chocolate.

Kids especially like double good peanut butter cookies. Make them by sandwiching together two cookies (homemade or bought) with peanut butter.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferris Cox

It is amazing how a political issue can take nothing more than rumors and build a national case from hearsay. The 177th Anti-trust-Republican Convention merry-go-round is a prime example. They have no more evidence than a lynch mob needs and yet they are convincing the public that it's true and proven. It may be true but maybe these liberals should apply the same rules they are making our courts apply on known criminals they are currently setting free. A lady writes a memo (then denies it) that someone told her they had heard someone else say there was hanky-panky going on and she became the central figure in the whole political affair. . . . Blaa.

I only thought our County politics were still pausing for their second wind last week . . . they had it and were off and running already! The behind the scenes "handlers," who pride themselves as kingmakers and kingbreakers, were busy having law suits filed in someone else's name. Well, it seems that this time the stand-ins don't like having their name involved in this affair, especially without them knowing about it beforehand. Also they have said they approve the location of the County farm buildings in the center of the county. This turn of events will undoubtedly cause some sleepless nights for our "handlers" but in a year or so they will again be thoroughly convinced that they really do what they dream of doing . . . running Coffee County. Us pore dumb folks just think we elect our County governing body when really they appoint themselves and work behind the scenes . . . Blaa.

This issue of The Elba Clipper is going out to an even larger audience than normal. We are mailing sample copies this week and the work is just about more than we can handle. It actually got to the point Monday that we were afraid to ask someone about an ad for fear they would take it and we would not be able to handle the extra work . . . but next week will be different so come on advertisers!

This is "Concern For POW/MIS Week" and I personally urge you to do something that might help get our friends and families back together. A small prayer by each one and a letter to those making the earthly decisions will be your part. Elba's Ben Ringford has been in a POW camp for over five years and HE needs your help . . . P.R.A.V.

We made the Easter Girl picture of Jenny Hamm on Sunday afternoon and after looking at them and curling up her nose Monday I suggested we use the one we made Saturday . . . she was setting copy in our office and her hair was in curlers. This may not have changed her opinion of the Sunday pictures but it hushed her modest comments about how bad the pictures were!

Spring brings Easter and the wonderful, joyous feeling of a new beginning—a rebirth of spirit and energy. Nature's rebirth of this time of year is a reminder that a person becomes, the more joy there is in watching the world come back to life.

This year our national spirit, too, needs revitalization. Young and old, easterners and westerners, workers and managers in this melting pot of ethnic and political backgrounds that is America, all share the same goals of peace and prosperity for all.

Just as spring is a time for Nature's growth, so our country must grow and become more productive to compete in world markets. Successful resolutions of past differences have made us strong. There is great hope for the future.

SENATOR SPARKMAN ANSWERS QUESTIONS

FROM READERS

Dear Senator Sparkman: What ever happened to the bill which would provide survivor benefits for the families of retired military personnel?

ANSWER: This bill is now before the Senate Armed Services Committee. I have been in touch with the Chairman of this Committee to express my interest.

ANSWER: H. R. 1, which has passed the House of Representatives, is now under consideration by the Senate Finance Committee. It is expected that final committee action will be completed in the near future. This bill calls for an increase of 5%, but a number of proposals have been made to increase these payments by larger percentages.

Dear Senator Sparkman: What is the status of the bill which would allow veterans with a 50% or higher service-connected disability to receive commissary privileges?

ANSWER: This bill, H. R. 5203, is now pending before the House Armed Services Committee but no final action has been scheduled at this time. Dear Senator Sparkman: I am a small businessman and wish to begin doing business with the U. S. government. How may I learn of government needs and solicitations?

ANSWER: Solicitations in excess of $5,000 are summarized in the Commerce Business Daily which is issued by the Department of Commerce. Subscription information can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20540. This publication is the best source for information on all Government procurements.

SCHOOL COMMUNITY RELATIONS

President's Anti-Busing Speech Falls Short, but is a First Step to End Forced Busing

JIM ALLEN

School community relations today for the most part have become those of a partnership relation between the school and the community. The program is recognized as one involving mutual responsibility by professional educators and lay citizens in the solution of many problems facing schools.

While most previously used methods of handling the problem of public relations is still used in some places, the current stage is one of partnership with a common objective. That of active being that of improving education for all the children of the community. Recent developments in some areas have seen community groups united and working together to improve the community and all its institutions.

Teachers and administrators need to understand the importance of good public relations from the point of view of the school and its effects in improving the educational program. The improvement of the educational program is a problem which involves and concerns all who have an interest in schools and education.

One of the most effective means for promoting good public relations between school and community is the parents-teacher organization. The central principle of this organization is that the welfare of the children is best served by the close cooperation of the two groups most intimately and deeply concerned with children—their parents and their teachers.

It believes that children's best interest demands a close and cordial working relationship between two major influences in the child's life—his home and his school. Teachers and parents are inevitably partners in the child's development. A parent-teacher organization which they both belong to and which results in benefits for children and also for their teachers and parents. School administrators and teachers belong to the parent-teacher organization for the same reason they belong to their professional associations to enrich their experience and increase their professional competence.

The function of any association of parents and teachers is to serve the child. The PTA helps the home and the school to agree on the program. Maximum education benefits are possible only when parents and teachers share their knowledge of individual students and unite their efforts and their resources to provide the best possible environment, material and spiritual, for the proper emotional, spiritual, and educational development of all children and youth.

A good and well functioning PTA organization serves its young people, and in doing so, it also serves their parents and teachers. It provides an excellent opportunity for parents to meet other parents who may have similar problems. It also provides an opportunity for the parent-teacher organization to gain a good understanding of the school curriculum, the problems of administration, extracurricular activities and school regulations and policies. The parents may also become cognizant of the needs of the school. Parents also get frequent opportunities to study and assist in the evaluation and improvement of the school program and its various services.

The parent-teacher association offers an excellent opportunity to school administrators and teachers to interpret the school to the community. Through a good organization, the administrators can explain school needs and school problems. Here is the sounding board for new ideas. One might think of it as the administrators open forum where free and open discussion of his problems and anticipated innovations can be made with benefit to all.

President Nixon's recent speech in which he called for Congressional action on anti-busing legislation did not go as far as I think he should have gone. Nevertheless his is a step in the right direction, obviously brought about because the vast majority of Americans—black and white—are angrily opposed to forced mass busing simply to establish a racial balance.

The point we have been trying to make for so long is that dollars which should be available for top quality education are actually being sacrificed by those who preach a false, degrading and shameful sociological experiment in which children are the main ingredients and the main sufferers.

For years I have been saying that the Courts have been largely left to their own devices in school usages where Congress has failed in its responsibilities to provide statutory guidance. Two weeks ago, when the Senate was debating anti-busing amendments to the Higher Education Act, I called upon Mr. Nixon to throw his support and influence into it.

Now, it's the loudest and sincerest. And I feel that this is a step in the right direction, obviously brought about because the vast majority of Americans—black and white—are angrily opposed to forced mass busing simply to establish a racial balance.

AWARD TO PEANUT CHAMPION—Mr. and Mrs. H. T. McWaters of Geneva, Ala., receive flight bag and airline tickets to the National Peanut Awards Seminar, March 13-16, in New Orleans, from Elanco Representative Jim Davis. McWaters and his wife were awarded the trip for winning the Alabama peanut production contest with a yield of 4,808 pounds per acre from 10.3 acres. The seminar, which recognizes the official peanut champion in each of seven peanut-growing states and also brings together peanut industry leaders, is sponsored by Elanco Products Company, manufacturer of Treflan and Balan peanut herbicides. Geneva County Extension Agent Robert Reynolds (right) was also on hand for the presentation.

You can tell a lot about a Volkswagen by the guarantee we get.

A good guarantee means a good product. It proves that the manufacturer is confident of quality.

Only Volkswagen has a guarantee as long as Volkswagen—24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. All other automobile manufacturers offer only half that.

Volkswagen alone, among all manufacturers, backs its guarantee with free electronic check-ups every 6,000 miles. We even give you a written report telling what we find.

What does this mean for you? If you maintain and service your Volkswagen in accordance with the VW maintenance schedule, any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles will be repaired or replaced free of charge.

And because we back this guarantee with regular electronic checks, we can catch defects early, while they're still covered by warranty. And before they become big problems.

That's Volkswagen's confidence in quality. Based on known sources.

Geneva Man Set Record In Peanut Production

H. T. McWaters of Geneva has set the 1971 Alabama peanut production record for highest yield per acre. His official yield of 4,808 pounds per acre from 10.3 acres was announced by the Alabama Peanut Growers' Association.

McWaters' 1971 yield record is more than double the average U. S. yield of 2,045 pounds per acre. The average yield in Alabama in 1971 was 2,070 pounds.

One way of looking at this remarkable yield is that one acre's production could be made into 3,506 jars of peanut butter. Roasted, there would be enough peanuts to give a 10¢ bag to everyone in a city of 28,848.

As Alabama Peanut Champion, McWaters and his wife, Annalee, have been awarded a trip to the National Peanut Awards Seminar, March 13-16, in New Orleans.

The seminar, sponsored by Elanco Products Company, manufacturer of Treflan and Balan herbicides, recognizes the official peanut champion in each of the seven peanut-growing states and also brings together peanut industry leaders.

Good weather and sound production practices helped McWaters increase his yield by more than 2,000 pounds, Harris says. "Besides having an ideal growing season, we had excellent leaf spot control—an annual problem for us."

McWaters also attributes his excellent yield to his seed variety, Florunner, and good weed control.

McWaters tries to keep his soil fertility level high. His prize winning field had been in corn the year before, and he used 500 pounds of 13-13-13 and 100 pounds of nitrogen.

In February, the Alabama Peanut Champion shredded the cornstalks and disked once. He then plowed about seven inches deep.

Two weeks before planting, he applied 3 quarts of a tractor mounted applicator. He incorporated the herbicide into the soil with a disk. On April 22, he planted 60 pounds of certified Florunner in 36-inch rows. The seed was both inoculated and treated. At planting, he applied 10 pounds per acre of insecticide for thrip control.

At cracking, he used a combination herbicide mixture for broad-leaf weed control. He also cultivated twice, three weeks and six weeks after cracking. He hand weeded the field twice during the growing season. McWaters also applied 500 pounds of gypsum.

Harvest was started September 7, but rain delayed combining for a full week. McWaters' peanuts graded 75 percent with an average price of $300 per acre.

The Alabama peanut champion has been growing peanuts for 35 years. He says, "We couldn't survive in this area if it weren't for peanuts, they're our main cash crop."

Besides growing peanuts, McWaters raises a few chickens. He has 150 calves and yearlings.

In addition to the peanut champion awards, the National Peanut Seminar is bringing together experts from all over the United States to discuss peanut production and marketing.

Included on the program are United States Department of Agriculture commodity experts, peanut grower associations, marketing specialists, and marketing personnel from major peanut processors and packagers.

Green Thumb Tips

One of the newest space savers in gardening is seed saving in water-soluble tape. Seeds are accurately spaced according to kind.

The gardener need only open a trench in previously-prepared soil, lay the tape in the bottom, cover to the depth given in the directions on the package, and firm soil to tape.

Rain or artificial water will dissolve the tape, leaving seeds in place ready to grow.

There also are yellow beans (more commonly known as "wax" beans) and purple-pink beans which turn green when cooked.

A good "mixer" in any garden is baby's breath, with its delicate branches to inhibit and tiny white blossoms.

Why not grow perennial flowers from seeds? If sown in spring the seedlings will be ready to move into permanent locations before frost.

Good many kinds will have a flower or two the first year.

BOOKS, BOOKS, AND MORE BOOKS—preparations for spring quarter are being made in the Enterprise State Junior College Bookstore. From left, Mrs. Ella Davis, secretary, Enterprise; Ewell Griswold, Financial Aid Officer, Victoria.

President Signs Public Cigarette Smoking Act

On April 1, two years ago, President Nixon signed the Public Health Cigarette Smoking Act into law. No April Fool joke, it called for a warning on every cigarette package that read: "The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

More recently, the Surgeon General in his annual report cited new evidence linking cigarettes to heart disease. Yet, millions of cigarette smokers are still fooling themselves by refusing to believe the warnings issued against smoking, says the Alabama Heart Association. Others continue to take the risk, even while knowing that the habit is harmful, because they feel it's impossible to stop.

It's really not as hard as you think to stop smoking, says the Alabama Heart Association. "There is no reason to try quitting the hard way—all alone. We can help you."

Why are so many people still hooked? One reason, says the Alabama Heart Association, is that too many people feel they are simply addicted. But in its booklet, "How to Stop Smoking," your Heart Association explains that smoking is not addiction. Addiction refers to a physical or chemical change within the body that cues you to do something," says the Alabama Heart Association. Smoking is not a chemical addiction. It is a form of learned behavior. If you've learned how to smoke, you can learn to be a non-smoker.

When you ask your Heart Association for information on how to stop smoking, ask for other ways to reduce your risk of heart attack and stroke. In addition to information on smoking, you can receive advice on:

1. How to eat a well-balanced, low-cholesterol, low-fat diet.
2. The danger of untreated high blood pressure.
3. How to stay at a normal weight.
4. The importance of exercising regularly and asking your doctor what exercise is best for you.

EASTER GREETINGS

Let the blessings of the season be yours...

Let us join together, young and old, to celebrate the glory of Easter... to rejoice in the meaning and the message of this season of rebirth. Let us praise Him, the risen Christ, as we sing the songs of Easter, and let us pray that the spiritual rebirth of Eastertide may be with us, one and all, a comfort and inspiration, day by day, throughout the year. With these Easter sentiments in our hearts, we greet you and sincerely wish that the season's blessings may be bountifully yours.

PENRAISED QUAIL
Dell Ellis of the Enterprise Medical Clinic called a few days ago about the possibility of stocking land with pen-raised Bobwhites. According to Earl Kennamer, our wildlife specialist, this practice is a waste of time and money. Kennamer continued, "Research over the years has proven that fewer than five pen-reared birds of each 100 released in the spring survive until fall." He gives three reasons for not stocking pen-raised birds. (1) The land is presently producing the maximum population of native Bobwhites. (2) Pen-reared quail are not as healthy as native Bobwhites and are more subject to disease and predators. (3) Pen-reared quail may be infected with disease at the time of release and this disease could be transmitted to healthy native quail.

Kennamer sums up by saying "The best procedure to follow with pen-raised quail -- if they have been legally produced or purchased -- is to prepare them for the frying pan."

INSECTICIDE USE
New laws which were passed by the recent legislature require dealers and users of pesticides to apply for a permit. Permits are issued for dealers to sell and for farmers to use certain restricted pesticides. We do not anticipate that this will cause much inconvenience in Coffee County because we are not growing much cotton or truck crops. However, some peanut growers will be using DDT, and they must have a permit to use DDT on peanuts.

I recommend that Coffee County farmers who anticipate that they will need to use some restricted pesticides during the year come by our office in Enterprise to fill in the simple application which is required. This in turn will be mailed to the Department of Agriculture and Industries in Montgomery for approval and sent back to the farmer. The procedure will enable the farmer to buy and use any of the restricted pesticides.

All of our agricultural business leaders in the county are cooperating in this program to make it as convenient for the individual farmer as possible. COMING EVENTS
Extension 4-H Agents Dan Price and Virginia Greene announce the following county wide event. One of the 4-H Public Speaking Contests which is to be held on April 4 at the Enterprise State Junior College. The cooperatives in the county and area are sponsoring the event. I understand that approximately 130 4-H Club Members will participate in the various clubs. The winners in the club contests will be coming to the county Public Speaking Contest.

Both agents are also reminding 4-H Club members that 4-H Record Books are to be turned in by March 31 along with the Safety Essays. Both the record books and safety essays will be judged and appropriate awards will be made.

CAMP HUMMING HILLS
Camp Humming Hills near Elba is going to be a "fine" facility for Girl Scouts to serve the entire area. I met with Committee members Fred Clark and Bill Faulk of Elba, and Mrs. J. W. Henderson of Enterprise, and Mrs. Mary Ponder of Dothan to discuss plans for improving this facility. Work is being done on the cabins, the fish pond, the recreational area, and the beautification. This is certainly going to be a facility that all of the people in the Wetmore will be proud of.

SOIL SAMPLES
We have been emphasizing the importance of soil testing and following recommendations for over 15 years in Coffee County. So far, the past six months over 1,000 fields have been tested in Coffee County. I can't remember a year when there has been this much interest in soil testing, both for row crops and pastures. I guess one reason for this is that row crops and pastures, too, are becoming more valuable to Coffee County farmers each year. As this value increases, they are anxious to eliminate as many risks as possible. Even the fact that the price on soil testing doubled two or three years ago from $10 to $20, this is not affecting the number of samples being sent to the laboratory. I think most farmers realize they are getting a good service.

Positive Thinking By Conservationists Urged by Weicker

Speaking before the Sierra Club in New Haven, Conn. recently, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. (R-Conn.) said that conservationists and environmentalists should seek positive answers on a wider horizon.

Noting that a negative note has crept into the conservation movement, Sen. Weicker said, "I used to be proud of my enthusiasm, accomplishments and association in the environmental field. And now I'm not so sure I've not substituted ecological lynch mobs for environmental justice."

He added that the American people are sensing that too. "With that national character of common sense," Weicker observed, "Americans don't want zero growth; don't want closed factories; don't accept no technology; don't buy no jobs; don't want brownouts. Just as they don't want to be bombed back to the stone age, they don't want to be environmentalized back there either."

He warned, "Any more irrational, impractical or unimaginative demands by environmentalists, and the American homeowner, sportsman and jobowner are going to throw them right out on their recycled cans. 'Any more delays caused by irrational impractical or unimaginative demands of ecologists and nature's world, its reconstruction, and preservation, gets a little further out of reach,' Sen. Weicker said.

SPORTS

with JOHNNY MARTIN

It was a bit surprising to find out how the Southeastern Conference basketball all-stars attacked against the best of the Missouri Valley conference. In a game played in Memphis last Sunday, the SEC stars whipped the MVC all-stars 82-62. Jim Price, Louisville's All-American guard, was named the Most valuable player of the game. Price flew in from Los Angeles after he played in the consolation game of the NCAA Championships Saturday afternoon. That's performing under a tight schedule. Alabama's Alan House and Jimmy Hollan and Auburn's Al Leppert and Henry Harris competed in the contest. Harris is the most impressive of the four, bagging eight points and having three assists. UCLA's sophomore center Bill Walton certainly dominates every basketball game in which he plays. In Saturday's final against Florida State, Walton was responsible for not only his own points and rebounds and many of his team's buckets. Keith Wilkes had 23 points, and at least seven of his buckets came on 10-foot jumpers. He was left open because of the double teaming of Walton. Ho-hum another year, and another championship for John Wooden Bruins.

Elba Country Club has a delegation of golfers going to Delmonico Springs, Florida on April 9 for their annual invitational tournament. At last count, some twelve players from our club are entered. This is always a good tournament, and the people at Delmonico Springs are very cordial hosts.

Every year when time rolls around for the Masters Tournament, it seems that all of Golf's big names being to play well. For instance, Gary Player has his game in top shape for Augusta, as he showed by winning last week's New Orleans Open. Jack Nicklaus is also playing well, finishing in a tie for second at New Orleans. If I must venture a guess, I will have to go with the big names in the big tournaments. Like Nicklaus, with Player, Lee Trevino, and defending champion Chi Les Yancey. He loves it -- August's National course and always plays well there. The Masters will be played April 6-9.

Elba High School will host a spring Football Jamboree this Friday night. Teams participating are Elba, Troy, Opp and Andalusia. Elba will play Troy in the first half of the affair.

Laying Flocks Expected To Be Healthier

To avoid depressed egg prices experienced by producers in the last half of 1971, egg production during the last half of 1972 should be reduced by two per cent from 1971 levels, says Wilson Lee, Extension poultry marketing specialist.

Reduction in egg production will require more than a two per cent decrease in the size of laying flocks, Lee says. This is because laying flocks this year are expected to be healthier than in 1971, and could produce a greater number of eggs.

The pullet chick replacement hatch during the last half of this year should be held to a level that will result in no increase in the 1973 laying flocks over the level recommended for 1972, Lee adds that increased efficiency by the laying flock will probably result in enough eggs produced to meet the needs of the larger number of consumers in 1973.

Spring Turkey Season Opens

The turkey hunters of Alabama will prepare in the early morning hours of March 20 to go afield and match skills with that of Alabama's smartest game bird, the wild turkey.

Sportsmen will be listening for the gobblers call in all parts of 53 counties during the spring season. Sportsmen hunting in counties with spring season only may hunt from March 20 to April 30. Counties with a combined fall and spring season will close on April 25.

The prospects are very good where proper habitat exist. An excellent hatch and a good carry over from last year has generated a population of approximately 250,000 turkeys.

Alabama law permits the taking of five gobblers during the combined fall 1971 and spring seasons. Edward Parish, Chief Enforcement Officer of the Game and Fish Division cautioned that turkeys can not be hunted with dogs, live decoys, or electrical devices. Hauling is also prohibited and any feeding program should have been discontinued at least 10 days prior to the opening of the season.

Hunters are reminded to have in their possession a current hunting license and a valid permit if required. Hunters should check their 1971-72 regulation book or inquire from their local conservation officer regarding specific areas open to hunting, time to hunt and prohibited methods.

TO THE VOTERS OF COFFEE COUNTY

Dear Friends:

I am 33 years old and have a wife and four children. I was born in Coffee County, Alabama. My parents are Mrs. Mercer Smith and the late Mercer Smith. I am presently engaged in general farming and dairy farming.

I want to be elected as a member of the court of Coffee Commissioners and I pledge myself to be dedicated to the discharge of my duties as a commissioner in an efficient manner. I realize that there is more to being a member of the court of county commissioners than road building. Many decisions have to be made by the court pertaining to the welfare of the people of Coffee County - decisions with respect to schools, education, civic activities, county services, etc.

I believe that if elected, I can and will work with the other members of the county commission for the benefit of Coffee County. We have a fine county with many fine people and I feel that I can help our county as it continues to grow and prosper.

Sincerely,

DON SMITH

Rural People Benefit

From FHA

Over three million rural people benefited from Farmers Home Administration (FHA) supervised credit programs during 1971, says Charles Maddox, Extension farm management specialist. These rural credit service loans totaled over $2.5 billion. FHA housing loans set the price with more than $1.4 billion advanced to families in the low to moderate income range, Maddox says. Farm loans increased to $754 million and rural community facility loans and grant rose to over $376 million. Economic opportunity loans stopped early last year, totaled $2.2 million.

The specialist adds that FHA credit supplements other credit available in rural county in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Loans are made only to applicants unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

LAST CHANCE

March 31, 1972, will be the last chance to enroll for Medical Insurance under Medicare for anyone born 9/30/04 or earlier, according to Ted A. Gamble, Manager of the Dothan District.

Everyone reaching age 65 should enroll no later than 3 months after that birthday. Those who don't enroll initially may enroll in January, February or March of the next 3 years during a general enrollment period. After the third general enrollment period passes without a person enrolling, they are forever out of the program.

Anyone born 9/30/04 or earlier, who has not enrolled already, should claim this benefit no later than March 31, 1972. Anyone unable to visit the Social Security Office may call without charge by dialing the Operator and asking for WX-6200.

No one likes to think of dying.

But death is a fact of life.

There's really no way to avoid the emotional strain it causes. But there is a way to ease the financial strain death causes.

You can buy funeral insurance. That's what thousands of Alabamians have done in purchasing a Liberty National-Brown Service Funeral Policy. It's an easy, convenient, inexpensive way to prepay the cost of death.

Why has the funeral policy achieved such widespread popularity?

At the time of death the first purpose for which life insurance proceeds are used is to pay funeral expenses. Only what remains is available for other needs.

The Brown-Service Funeral Policy was designed to meet this need. Unlike most life insurance which provides dollars of uncertain value, the Brown-Service Policy provides, not dollars, but a complete prepaid funeral thus eliminating the uncertainty as to funeral expense.

Is the cost reasonable?

Yes, for the premiums are based on the actual cost of providing the funeral. Because of the large number of funerals provided under this plan each year the cost under each plan is less than the retail value of the funeral without the plan. This saving is passed on to the policyowner.

What other ways is this saving made?

A subsidiary company of Liberty National has invested more than a million dollars in a casket factory which uses the latest and the most efficient methods and machines in order to reduce the cost of caskets to the minimum consistent with high quality.

Caskets used in Brown-Service Funerals are provided by the company at cost so that the policyowner gets the benefit of a wholesale price.

In the event a more expensive funeral is desired, the authorized Funeral Director will give credit for the full retail value of the policy on the cost of the funeral selected.

What benefits are provided if death occurs in Alabama?

The policyowner will get a complete funeral consisting of: Transportation to the funeral home up to 35 miles, embalming, preparation for burial, casket, burial suit or dress, the services of an experienced Funeral Director, a place for holding the memorial service and transportation to the place of interment up to 35 miles.

What benefits are provided if death occurs outside of Alabama?

The policy will pay a cash benefit of the amount stated in the policy. On older policies the cash benefit is half the retail value and on currently issued policies it is two-thirds the retail value.

Most of the uncertainties as to the cost caused by death are eliminated for the Brown-Service policyowners. In the calmness of life a man may make his plans, confident that his plans will be carried out. Service of the highest quality is available through some 200 capable and courteous Funeral Directors in Alabama. These funeral homes are conveniently located throughout the State. No detail is overlooked in the performance of the final ceremony.

If you do not have a Brown-Service Funeral Policy, see your Liberty National agent. He'll explain how easily you can own this most basic of all insurance.

Elba Pre-School Program In Progress

This year a new program has been added to the Elba City School System. The program is funded by the Federal Government under public law 89-10, Title III. The program involves a three-year grant funded by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and is administered by the Alabama State Department of Education in Montgomery. During the first year of operation, the pre-school is to receive $93,000, the second year, $92,500, and the third year, $92,000. The Elba Pre-school is located at the old Mulberry Height High School and has eighty-one five year old students enrolled for classes this year. The school term is nine months and the students meet from 8:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m., five days per week. To be eligible, a child must be five on or before October 1st. The program has four components:

(1) Tutorial - the tutors being Mrs. Judy Valine and Maxie Bruce.

(2) Pre-school-the teachers being Helen Ratner, Maggie E. Marshall, and Mary Neal Brown. Each of these teachers have a ool, then we have accomplished a great deal." Holley says that the basic concept of the pre-school is to help teach the children a meaningful relationship of words, things, ideas, expressions, etc., so that they might become further enlightened to learn things for themselves, and so that they will be better prepared for the first grade.

The children have been on several field trips. They have seen the police station, fire department, post office, and the rescue unit. According to Mr. Holley, these field trips, although not required, contribute a great deal to a child's understanding of his immediate environment. Holley welcomes any visitors and will be glad to show them the pre-school facilities and classes.

Film Shows How New Lights Reduce Crime

A new color film, "One Glow of Hope," in 16 mm-sound demonstrates how Washington, D.C. is helping to reduce the menace of crime on the streets.

This 27-minute film is produced by Newsweek Magazine and the General Electric Company in cooperation with the City of Washington. The film shows the positive results obtained by increasing street light power to reduce the dark and shadowy areas of potential danger. Where this has been done in Washington, crime has been reduced by as much as 35 percent, District of Columbia officials assert.

"One Glow of Hope" may be borrowed without charge from the Modern Talking Picture Service, 2323 New Hyde Park Road, New Hyde Park, New York 11040, or through any GE Lamp Division sales office.

Scenes Of Daily Activities At Kleinerts Plant

Pictured here with Keyboard Input Computer are Terry Brooks and Nina Sawyer. Although this is one of the smaller computers, it is what one might call the "center of the business". It handles payroll checks, purchasing, inventory control, and various other business functions encountered by Kleinerts, Inc. In addition, it enables Kleinerts to communicate directly with their home office in Kutz Town, Pennsylvania via computer, thus eliminating probable human error in business transactions.

Members of Kleinerts warehouse department are in charge of shipping and receiving, with Jerry Free directing receiving and Lonnie Wade directing shipping. Kleinerts is proud to say that their truck-drivers are doing an outstanding job transporting merchandise between Elba and Kutz Town, Pennsylvania.

KLEINERT'S OF ELBA began its training plant in September of 1969 and held the grand opening of their multi-million dollar plant on October 11, 1970. Kleinert's Inc. is one of the nation's oldest manufacturing companies. It was founded over 100 years ago in New York City. The plant, located in the Elba Industrial Park on a twenty acre site, is now employing approximately 670 sewing machine operators and administrative

To The Voters Of Coffee County

Dear Friends:

It is my firm belief that for the County Commissioner to function properly and progressively as well as economically it must first work out an extended priority program by which it can give the county a respectable garbage pick-up, proper roads and bridges, engineering, building, inspection and maintenance.

The County Board of Commissioners and the Probate Judge would work in harmony with the County Engineer in distributing the money available for such road work as is needed throughout the county.

It shall be the duty of the commissioners to obtain bids and buy such equipment as is needed to operate and perform the duties and all work done in Coffee County.

I believe if our county office is governed and operated on the basis of good business management and integrity that over a period of ten years it could save the county at least one million dollars.

If I am elected I can assure you that these are my aims and goals. Join me in the million dollar jack pot.

Sincerely,

W. T. "MACK" MCKINNEY

CANDIDATE, PLACE NO. 1 DISTRICT 4 COFFEE COUNTY, ALABAMA

Consumers Want to Know

Sometimes I feel I'd like to object to a TV commercial. How can I find out what agency prepared the commercial?

You can write or telephone your objection to the television station and it will be forwarded to the agency. The same procedure is recommended for misleading advertising on radio, or in newspapers and magazines.

Isn't there also that punishes businesses that advertise items at low prices and then try to sell consumers a more expensive model?

This is called "bait and switch" advertising which is considered a deceptive practice and should be reported to the Better Business Bureau or other consumer protection agencies in your area.

Does the purchase price of a mobile home include furnishings?

Yes, the basic home furnishings including carpeting, curtains and draperies, furniture, kitchen and heating appliances. Freight charges, plus the cost of setting the home on the site are usually included in the purchase price.

Is it true that book clubs have been outlawed? If so, when did the law go into effect?

New regulations have been proposed by the Federal Trade Commission to regulate sales plans often used by book and record companies. The regulation does not outlaw this method of selling.

What kinds of products must be packaged in child resistant containers?

All packages for aspirin and all packages for products containing aspirin—powder preparations, suppositories, chewing gum, effervescent tablets and cold pills—and like medications are included in the requirement.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as an information service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Measles

Cases of regular measles in the nation are occurring at almost twice last year's rate and there are indications that the rise is beginning in Alabama.

vaccine to prevent the disease and it is readily available from your physician.

The incidence of three-day or German Measles also is increasing and although a vaccine also is available to combat them, it generally is not given to women of child-bearing age. When German Measles occur in early pregnancy, the disease sometimes is severely crippling to the unborn child and thus the vaccine is withheld under the same circumstances because of an unproven possibility that it could have the same undesirable effect.

No such general restriction exists with the vaccine to protect against regular measles but apparently few Alabamians have availed themselves of this protection.

Nationally for the first 15 weeks of the year, there were more than 33,000 cases compared to only 18,000 for the same period last year.

If your children have not had one or both types of measles, it is recommended that you check with your family physician. This also would be a good time to bring all of the family's immunizations up-to-date, including those for polio, lockjaw, whooping cough and diphtheria.

Portrait Demonstration

Set March 30

Art fans from the Wiregrass are invited to attend a portrait demonstration by Woodi Ishmael, assistant professor of Art, Troy State University, at Enterprise State Junior College Thursday, March 30, 1972 at 7 p.m.

Joe Logan, director of Evening Division at ESJC announced today. Logan said, "this presentation was arranged by Randy Reddock who is teaching the short course, Creative Art for the Art Enthusiast, which meets every Tuesday. The public is invited to see Ishmael do a portrait demonstration with Dr. Duane Tway, chairman of History and social science department at TSU as his model."

Ishmael has a long and distinguished record of judging art shows in the New York area; has been an official artist of the U. S. Air Force since 1955; was resident artist on the steamship United States and the Queen Elizabeth; was the only artist on the wire-photo covering the Jack Ruby Trial in 1964; and writes and draws the column, "The Power of Faith," for the Associated Press.

"A lot of people are known by the company they keep and others by whom they avoid," John H. Gilgour, Tri County (Mo.) News.
